STATOTHR

Dear

This is just a note to thank you for your help during my recent visit to the campus. We were quite impressed, as we told you, with several of your people who will be ready for employment next spring, and also we have earmarked several names of those who will not be ready for another year or so.

Wherever we went we found that the new policy authorizing relative academic freedom for our people made a positive impression on prospects, particularly the good ones, of course. I need not say that we are grateful to you and your colleagues on the Panel of Senior Consultants for the part you played in obtaining the new policy.

We all look forward to seeing you again in the spring if not sooner. Meanwhile, I am grateful for your recent help.

Sincerely,
